United States Censuses

- * Do not include leading zeros in film or DGS numbers.
- * Do not include “MF.”
- * If both an FHL number and a DGS number are listed, put a forward slash - / - between the FHL number and the DGS number.

Use FHLF or FHL DGS for Family History Library microfilms. Use ED for Enumeration District.

Footnote Formats for Authored Books

If the same source book needs to be cited in a later footnote, the correct format is [

1. ONE AUTHOR: [author's first name, middle name, or initial(s), then last], [title of book in italics] ([location of publisher, including state if not a major city like Chicago, New York, London, etc.]: [publisher], [year of publication]), [page number or numbers, do not use "p." or "page"]. Example:

⁵ James F. Jones, The Themes in Ancient Greek Plays (Baltimore, Md.: Collegiate Publishers, Inc., 1975), 38-43.

2. TWO AUTHORS: same as #1 except both authors' names are included first name first with an 'and' between the names. Example:

¹⁰ James F. Jones and Susan Q. Tremaine, Better Living Through Science (New York: McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., 1990), 117.

3. EDITOR: [editor's first name, middle name or initial(s), then last], ed., [title of book in italics] ([location of publisher]: [publisher], [year of publication]), [page number or numbers, do not use "p." or "page"].

⁶⁷ Susan Q. Tremaine, ed., The Letters of Edgar Allan Pough (Chicago, Ill: University of Chicago Press, 2001), 132, 139.

4. MULTI-VOLUME WORK with or without an author or editor: [author's or editor's name (see above)], [title of book in italics], [number of vols.], ([location of publisher]: [publisher], [year of publication]), [volume and page number or numbers using only Arabic numerals; do not use "v." or "vol." "p." or "page"; do not use Roman numerals unless referring to a page so numbered in the book; volume and page number(s) are separated by a colon]. Examples:

²² Susan Q. Tremaine and Henrietta Southworth, Probate Records in Connecticut, 4 vols., (Hartford, Conn.: Jones & Smith, Publishers, 2003), 2:156-158.

¹⁹ The Papers of the Municipal Courts of New Haven, Connecticut, 6 vols., (New Haven, Conn.: Yale University Press, 1985), 4:14, 5:36 and 6:114.

The Papers of the Municipal Courts of New Haven, Connecticut, 6 vols., (New Haven, Conn.: Yale University Press, 1985), 4:14; 5:36; 6:114.

Credit for Photos or Illustrations

According to the Chicago Manual of Style, "Illustrations from works in the public domain may be reproduced without permission. For readers' information, however, a credit line is appropriate."

Examples:

Illustration by Joseph Pennell for Henry James, English Hours (Boston, 1905), facing p. 82.

Reprinted from John D. Shortridge, Italian Harpsichord-Building in the 16th and 17th Centuries, US National Museum Bulletin 225 (Washington, DC, 1960).

"Although illustrations created by the author do not need credit lines, such wording as "Photo by author" may be appropriate if other illustrations in the same work require credit. In works with more than one author, such wording may include the name of a particular author."

"A brief statement of the source of an illustration, known as a credit line, is usually appropriate and sometimes required by the owner of the illustration. Illustrative material under copyright, whether published or unpublished, usually requires permission from the copyright owner before it can be reproduced. You cannot simply snap a photo of your favorite Picasso and use it to illustrate your history of cubism; before attempting to reproduce the painting, you must write to obtain written permission, as well as a print of the work, from the museum or person that owns it. Nor may you use a photograph or other portrayal of an identifiable human subject without the consent of that person or someone acting on his or her behalf (e.g., by means of a model release form). Although it is the author's responsibility, not the publisher's, to obtain permissions, the publisher should be consulted about what needs permission and the best way to obtain it."
